

“Bite Size Learning sessions are fast paced, high impact and incredibly valuable short skills development experiences.”

1.5 hour sessions starting from £395
excluding expenses and VAT

Your own in-house Bite Size Learning events

Taking people out from their busy work schedules can be challenging. Our new range of bite size learning events allow short, high impact learning specific to your needs. Breakfast, lunchtime or end of day, absolutely your choice.

BITE SIZE LEARNING

Questioning and Listening Skills

Great communication starts with the ability to question, actively listen and summarise understanding. We explore a range of approaches to questioning and experience active listening.

The Art of Motivation and Delegation

Getting the best out of people involves using motivation and effective delegation. The session explores individual and team motivators and how to use that knowledge to develop others through appropriate delegation.

SMART and Behavioural Objectives

An essential element of performance management requires managers to be skilled in accurate objective setting. In this session, we develop clear SMART objectives and explore the value of behavioural objectives.

Influencing Others Essentials

All roles need us to be able to influence others. Here we look at core styles that others prefer to take and work out how we can use our understanding of others to better influence them. Good fun and self developing.

Day to Day Instant Coaching

Most team leaders and line managers probably have opportunities to coach people every day. This session looks at the value of 'instant coaching'. That is coaching at every appropriate opportunity. Pragmatic and valuable.

The Value of Tricky Feedback

It would be great if people felt confident in giving feedback on things they feel are going to be difficult or challenging. We practice factual and supportive feedback approaches to help improve relationships.

Prices are for any event booked, paid for and delivered before June 2020. Prices may vary depending on client needs and location.

0121 366 87 99

info@skillschannel.tv